Announcing Corwin’s 2018 Annual Visible Learning Conference

CHICAGO, IL (May 24, 2018)—Corwin, the leading professional learning provider for K-12 educators, is excited to unite the greatest minds in education at the fifth Annual Visible Learning Conference this July in Chicago.

This year’s event, taking place from July 8th through the 11th, is particularly significant as it follows closely after Corwin’s April global acquisition of Visible Learningplus, the model of school change based on John Hattie’s significant research base. Mike Soules, President of Corwin said, “As John Hattie’s partner and the official global provider of Visible Learningplus, we have the opportunity to give all children an education that is built by design. During this year’s conference, we are excited to share the latest developments in the Visible Learning research and provide impactful strategies to educators to bring back to their classrooms”.

For the second year in a row, the conference has sold out months in advance. Over 1,700 attendees from across the globe will learn from the 130 presenters who will share insights from the world’s largest research on what works best in student learning. Attendees will also have the opportunity to network with practitioners who have direct experience putting Visible Learning research into practice. Keynote speakers include industry thought leaders such as John Hattie, Douglas Fisher, Nancy Frey, James Nottingham, Zaretta Hammond, and Marcia Tate.

The Visible Learning research is a culmination of over 25 years of examining and synthesizing more than 1,400 meta-analyses comprising approximately 90,000 studies involving over 250 million students around the world. Visible Learningplus translates this groundbreaking research into a practical model of analysis and evaluation through professional learning district and school-wide.
